TEN CENTS PER WEEK

PRISONERS PLAN TO ESCAPE FROM M'CRACKEN JAIL

Two Hide Out Until Lone Turnkey Enters Cage to Answer Call.

Cartee Proves Wary and Discovers Plot.

TOMMY FARRIN IS SICK BOY.

By a clever ruse prisoners in the county jail last night tried to effect a wholesale jail delivery, but their plans were frustrated by Walter Cartee, deputy county jailer. Their plan was to get Cartee inside the jail corridor, and then overpower him and release all the prisoners in the jail. Several weeks ago Cartee received a tip that an attempt would be made and he was ready.

Two white prisoners, Ford Jackson, charged with robbing a store at Gilbertsville, and Gene Bright, in jail on the charge of forgery, remained out of their cells last night when the cage was turned, and concealed themselves in the corridor under a bench. The other prisoners are locked in their cells in the afternoon about 4 o'clock, but the two prisoners remained quiet until last night about 9 o'clock when all of the jail officials, except Cartee, had left.

Shortly after 9 o'clock Cartee heard groans, and Tommy Farrin, who is in jail on the charge of murdering the unidentified youth on the Pool road, called that he was sick, and needed medicine.

A small amount of medicine failed to ease the pain, and he called for Cartee to come inside the corridor and see him. However, the deputy jailer was aware of the scheme, and refused to enter the door. Seeing that he could not be drawn into the corridor, Risby, a colored prisoner, who was in a cell only a few feet from the main door became sick, and demanded that medical attention be given him. Cartee still refused to enter the corridor, and sent Risby a pill of morphine, which soon had the effect of putting him sound asleep.

Cartee handled the situation without calling Jailer Houser. He called Prather Wells, a trusty, and opened the door for him to enter the corridor. Wells turned over the bench, and Cartee promptly covered Jackson with his hands. He tossed him a pair of handcuffs, and under the threat of shooting, made Jackson adjust the handcuffs on his own hands. When he saw that the ruse was completely foiled, Bright walked up to the bars like a man, and permitted the handcuffs to be adjusted on his wrists. Both Jackson and Bright spent the remainder of the night handcuffed together.

The attempt at jail breaking was the second that Cartee has frustrated, as he stopped the outbreak when Cicero Anderson and Troy Dill tried to saw their way out of jail last spring. It was learned this morning that Farrin intended to draw Cartee to his cell, and it was the purpose of Bright and Jackson to overpower the deputy jailer, take his gun and keys, and then lock him in the dungeon. With the guardian of the jail stored away, the prisoners intended to turn the cage and release every prisoner. It was a daring attempt that was frustrated by the watchfulness of Cartee, who was on his guard for the emergency, and handled it alone.

New York, July 19.—Private advices here today from Kieff, Russia, tell of continued expulsion of Jews. Nearly 500 have been driven from the city in the last ten days. Fifteen hundred others are warned to move. Six thousand have been driven out by royal decree. Conditions are desperate.

Grand Trunk Railway System Now Tied Up With Strike, and Million Dollars Behind Demand of Men

Toronto, Buffalo and Detroit
Are Centers of Agitation--- Pennsylvania Differences
Are Settled.

Toronto, July 19.—Freight and passenger traffic on the Grand Trunk is at a standstill today, following last night's strike of 4,500 trainmen. Union officials say the railroad will be soon compelled to give in. The railroad officials say they have experienced non-union labor en route here to work. The men demand a wage scale like the eastern roads of the United States and have a million dollar defense fund.

Michigan, Vermont and northern points, where there are Grand Trunk connections are crippled by the strike. Trains are reaching Chicago hours behind their schedule.

Tied Up at Buffalo.
Buffalo, July 19.—Strike of 8,850 trainmen of the Grand Trunk system in Canada tied up Canadian connections here. The last train left at 9 a.m. night. There is no trouble yet.

Central Vermont Tied Up.
St. Albans, Vt., July 19.—Forced out by the strike of trainmen on the Grand Trunk and on Central Vermont in sympathy, 650 workmen in the machine shops here were thrown out of employment. Traffic on the Central Vermont system is paralyzed. There is no violence.

Armed Guards.
Port Huron, Mich., July 19.—Armed men are guarding the Grand Trunk station here today, although no violence is evidenced. Strike breakers are working on regular passenger and mail trains.

Detroit Also Tied Up.
Detroit, July 19.—The Grand Trunk system is making every effort to move the mail and passengers with strike-breakers between here and Chicago. It is believed freight traffic will be held up at least a month.

Pennsylvania Settlement.
Philadelphia, July 19.—General Manager W. H. Myers, of the Pennsylvania railroad, and the committee representing the 15,000 trainmen and conductors employed on the lines of the road east of Pittsburgh agreed on a basis for the settlement of the wage controversy. Each side claims to have gained all that it had been contending for in the negotiations which have been in progress for the last six months, and which culminated last week in the strike vote by the employees. The proposition offered by the railroad officials and accepted by the men includes a day of ten hours, as detailed in the New York Central award. On certain runs, where the company's present rate is higher, the rate will not be disturbed.

The classification of these exceptional runs and the question of overtime was left to be decided at conferences between the various members of the committee and the division superintendents of the lines which they represent.

It was further agreed that the men would be guaranteed twenty-six days work a month. While the men regard this as a concession, the railroad officials say that during the recent hard times the men were benefited by being worked on short time rather than being laid off altogether.

He said the same applied to attacks on congress. He deplored public extravagance.

DIDN'T STAY UP.

Anna, Ill., July 19.—George Howard and Walter Collins, who left Hamilton, Ohio, last night to break the balloon record, landed near here this morning. They intended to stay in the air two days.

RESIDENCE FIRE ON JEFFERSON ST.

ROOF BURNED OFF HOME OF
HENRY E. ENDERS THIS MORNING.

Fire badly damaged the residence of Mrs. Henry E. Enders, 1046 Monroe street, this morning. Before the alarm was given in to the fire department the entire roof was on fire, and it was only by strenuous work on the part of the firemen that the blaze was checked with the loss of the roof. It was necessary to use two streams of water to check the fire, and the household furnishings were damaged by the water.

The fire, it is thought started from a defective flue in the kitchen, the flames broke out near the kitchen and spread rapidly. There was not a new telephone in the neighborhood, and it was almost 10 minutes before it was possible to give the alarm to the fire department. Hoose company No. 3, and truck company No. 4, answered the alarm, and after a hard fight stopped the fire after the roof was burned off. The loss on the house it is estimated will be at least $700, partially covered by insurance.

Mrs. Enders was ill, and she was carried out of the burning house to the residence of a neighbor.

Efforts were made to get the fire department over the Cumberland phone, which the city took out, and the department was delayed ten minutes.

ST. LOUIS GIRL DROWNS; IS KNOWN IN THIS CITY.

St. Louis papers report the drowning in Merrimack river of Miss Viola Sensesbrenner, and Mr. Joseph Garlich, of that place, whose empty canoe gave the only clue to their fate. Miss Sensesbrenner has visited Miss Gene Morris in Paducah and is well known here socially.

WOMAN CONFESSES TO HER IDENTITY

MYSTERY OF CHICAGO SHOOT-ING AND SUICIDE IS ALL CLEARED UP.

Chicago, July 19.—Mystery surrounding the suicide of C. W. Rigdon, and wounding of "Mrs. Emma Deufex," was solved today by the police securing a confession from the woman, who admitted she was Mrs. Corrella Young. She is in a critical condition at the hospital. Jealousy of Mrs. Young was the motive for Rigdon's act. It is believed he also intended to kill R. C. Fetzer in whose office the tragedy occurred.

kind that does not carry appropriations, unauthorized by any public good, which are not sanctioned by local pride. Such measures are the result of combinations. The remedy is in giving the president power to veto obnoxious items." Another extravagance, he said, was the civil list. He believes there are thousands and tens of thousands on the government payroll in excess of a reasonable requirement.

Murdoch "Comes Back."

Emporia, Kan., July 19.—Congressman Victor Murdoch this afternoon will reply to Cannon's speech here yesterday, regarding the rubber schedule in the tariff. Cannon said Bristow didn't tell all about it. Cannon left Topeka this morning for Herington, where he will speak this afternoon.

FUTRELL TRIAL OCCUPIES TIME OF SPECIAL TERM

Criminal Court Progressing Rapidly With Hearing of Murder Case.

Will Adjourn When it is Finished.

DEAN GETS HIS NEW HEARING.

Tomorrow will end the term of the special criminal session, which convened Monday. The only case that will be tried is the murder trial of Louis Futrell and his father, J. S. Futrell, of Model, Tenn., charged with killing Horace Osburn, a street car motorman. The trial was taken up yesterday afternoon and has progressed at good speed. It is expected that all of the evidence will be finished sometime this afternoon and possibly some of the arguments heard. It is thought that the case will be closed by tomorrow afternoon, and the special session will end.

The prosecution finished its evidence this morning, and when court Louis Futrell and J. S. Futrell had been on the witness stand. Their evidence was that Osburn struck J. S. Futrell and knocked him down, and that Louis Futrell shot Osburn in defense of the life of his father. The defense attacked the testimony of Mrs. Osburn. They introduced Henry Bailey, former night captain of police, and Thomas Potter, also former night captain of police, who testified that on the night of the killing, Mrs. Osburn told them she was not in the hall at the time of the shooting and did not see it. In her testimony, Mrs. Osburn said she was within a few feet of her husband when he was shot.

The jury in the case is V. H. Blewitt, Henry Countz, M. B. Trapp, J. D. Potter, T. E. Gaines, J. W. Boren, J. I. Bryan, J. N. McIntosh, Linnis Roof, Jeff Gray, T. C. Overstreet and J. A. Taylor.

Trial Began Yesterday.
The trial was begun yesterday afternoon after over an hour spent in trying to secure a continuance by the defense. The attorneys for the defense filed an affidavit stating that after diligence they had been unable to locate four important witnesses. Circuit Judge William Reed decided that he had used diligence, but ruled that the case should go to trial. The commonwealth announced ready for trial yesterday morning, and the case was postponed until this afternoon, in order to give the defense an opportunity to prepare the affidavit.

The prosecution consented to admit the testimony that would be given by the four witnesses, and the case was called. The regular panel of jurors was exhausted and it was necessary to secure several bystanders to fill the jury box. The first witness for the commonwealth was Mrs. Horace Osburn, wife of the dead man. She testified that the men were drinking when they entered the house, and were ordered out by her husband when they became abusive. She said that while standing at the foot of the steps her husband was shot by Louis Futrell, who was urged by his father to commit the act. She stated that she was within a short distance of her husband when the fatal shot was fired.

W. I. Stanley was called and his evidence was only partially heard when court adjourned. Mr. Stanley corroborated Mrs. Osburn in her testimony.

The defense is represented by Attorneys S. H. Crossland, J. K. Hendrick, Hal S. Corbett, while R. T. Lightfoot, who was employed by the relatives of Osburn, is leading the prosecution assisted by Commonwealth's Attorney John G. Lovett and County Attorney Sanders E. Clay.

Dean Hearing.
By agreement of the attorneys this morning, the examining trial of Guy Dean, charged with complicity in the Pool road murder, was continued from Saturday morning until next Monday morning. The trial will be held before County Judge Barkley.

LITTLE INTEREST SHOWN

Little interest was manifested in the call for the election of Democratic precinct chairmen in six of the city precincts this afternoon. The mass conventions to elect a precinct chairman in the Butler, South Side Court House, Young, Bernhard, Gott and Chalk precincts apparently went unheeded. At 2:30 o'clock it was reported that none of the conventions had been held in any of the precincts.

Successor to Late J. R. Puryear, United States Court Clerk, Will be Walter S. Blackburn of Marion

Local Aspirants For Office
Will be Disappointed, According to Well Authentici-ated Tip.

The tip is out and comes from an authentic source, though one which must be guarded in confidence, that Walter S. Blackburn, of Marion, will succeed the late John R. Puryear as clerk of the United States court here. Mr. Blackburn was formerly chief deputy under A. D. James, when he was United States marshal.

The appointment, which, it is expected will be announced this week, is made by United States Judge Walter Evans, of Louisville. As there is no one in charge, who can attend to the business of the office no delay is anticipated in the announcement.

Much local interest has been taken in the appointment, and though not all are known to be applicants, the following names have been mentioned as possible appointees: W. C. Kidd, deputy circuit clerk; United States Commissioner Armour Gardner; Attorneys A. Y. Martin, David Browning and T. N. Hazell, and Mr. P. Palmer, who has been frequently employed about the court during the sessions. It is understood that many recommendations were circulated here and signed by citizens, supposed to have more or less influence with the judge.

Members of the local bar, of course, are interested in the sort of official appointed, and most of them have their names attached to somebody's application for the place.

Roosevelt Keeps "Hands Off."
New York, July 19.—"I never recommended any man for the office. I do not intend to do so this year. I hope, however, there will be progressive platforms adopted by various Republican conventions this fall."

Roosevelt thus outlined his position in the political world at the offices of the Outlook today. He had just closed a conference with Judge Kincaide, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor of Ohio. Roosevelt refused to make results of the conference public. Roosevelt discussed New York politics with various leaders.

President Jordan, of Leland Stanford University, and a delegation of students called to congratulate Roosevelt on his return home. Roosevelt would not be a candidate for re-election. Foelker told him he is an insurgent and one of the issues of the Democrats might win out on Cannonism.

GRAVES OFFICIALS WILL GRAVEL ROADS

For the purpose of determining which road to gravel from Mayfield to the McCracken county line, the members of the Graves county fiscal court and some of the county officials made the trip from Mayfield to Paducah in five automobiles. They inspected every road leading to Paducah for the purpose of selecting the best route. The McCracken county roads are graveled and improved to the county line.

East Point, Maine, July 19.—President Taft arrived here today on his yacht, Mayflower, on his cruise up the coast. He was given an ovation.

ACTORS STRANDED; SHOW ATTACHED

IMPERIAL STOCK COMPANY
COMES TO GRIEF AFTER BRIEF ENGAGEMENT.

Because of bad business the Imperial Musical Comedy company, which played at the Casino theater at Wallace park several days last week, but since Wednesday has been the attraction at the Kentucky theater, struck rocks this morning and disbanded. The show has not been a strong drawing card, and the management of the Kentucky theater cancelled the contract, and will finish the week out with moving pictures before resuming vaudeville next week. Some of the actors were not paid and the paraphernalia of the company was attached in the court of Magistrate C. W. Emery. Only a few members of the company were left stranded.

London Police Consider Crippen Criminal Wonder.

CHEMICALS ATTACK THE BONES

London, July 19.—More details in the methods used by Crippen in murdering his wife are coming to light. Detectives declare the crime was one of the most brutal in English criminal history. A force of men with grabbing hooks is dragging Regent canal in the hope of finding the head, feet and hands of a woman and portions of flesh from the torso. Some believed Crippen dissolved the bones in sulphuric acid. In a hole in the cellar were found chunks of flesh, a pajama coat, a handkerchief, flesh parted from the bones, corroded with chemicals but identified as human.

A man resembling Crippen was arrested this morning in Canterbury, but it was not he.

Police say the fiendish intelligence with which the crime was committed and proof of the murder wiped out, stamps the physician as an abnormally acute criminal. Stories of his wife's departure and death run so well told the murderer probably would not have been suspected had not Crippen fled with Miss Levene.

Police today offered a reward of £250 ($1,250) for the apprehension of Crippen. According to a statement issued today, Crippen left his office the afternoon of July 9. Since then all trace is lost.

Revolt in Turkey.
Constantinople, July 15.—A Revolution against the rule of the Young Turks is momentarily expected in Turkey. The general feeling is hope for the success of the revolutionaries. Though only two years ago Abdul Hamid was deposed the people realize that conditions are little improved. Martial law is still practiced, and objectionable political leaders jailed.

In the first game Woodring was on the slab for Paducah and he proved invincible. His slow balls were a complete puzzle to the Alices and they secured only one safe hit. Opposed to him was Roberts, who yielded but four bingles. In the second game Gwinn pitched a grand game for the visitors, and should have been entitled to the victory. However, the four errors of the Indians were too much to permit a victory. Three more games in two days remain to be played.

NO WONDER HE DANCES

It is said that stiffness and soreness in the joints and muscles caused from Rheumatism can be relieved in a remarkably short time, and the limbs made supple and limber, with a few doses of the new Barkola Globes treatment.
Those who have tried it say it works very quickly and acts on the kidneys, and that it is very easy to take.
Druggists claim it is already outworking every other similar remedy on the market. The great demand for it that has recently sprung up, looks like it is doing the work. A guarantee to refund the money to any person who tries the treatment and is not benefited, is being offered by Gilbert's Drug Store.

CHANGE OF HEART IN FISCAL COURT

MAGISTRATES RECONSIDER TWO PROPOSITIONS.

Let Nashville Bridge Company Have Contract After Once Rejecting Bids.

ALSO LET TELEPHONE REMAIN

Reconsideration of their acts were given on two occasions yesterday afternoon by the members of the fiscal court when they met in special session. The magistrates rejected all of the bids for erecting the spans of the old steel bridge over Clark's river, and then turned right over and awarded the contract to the Nashville Bridge company. The old telephone in the road and bridge supervisor's office was ordered removed, but later a reconsideration was taken, and the telephone permitted to remain.

The magistrates assembled yesterday morning, but no bids were filed, and the court adjourned until yesterday afternoon. It was after 2 o'clock when the magistrates got down to business. There were only two bidders: Nashville Bridge company, $2,300 and the Vincennes Bridge company, $2,980. Magistrate Ross considered the bids too high and he made the motion that all bids be rejected, and the road supervisor secure new bids and requiring that each bid be accompanied by a certified check of $250. The motion was seconded by Magistrate Spitzer and the motion passed unanimously.

The Vincennes Bridge company withdrew its bid, and the representative of the Nashville Bridge company did likewise, claiming that his men were already on the ground and it would be too expensive to bring them back in case his company secured the contract. It struck the magistrates that the bid might not be so high after all, considering the difficulty of the work. The motion to reconsider the action of the court was passed by the votes of Magistrates Bleich, Emery, Householder, Kuykendall and Walston.

On motion of Magistrate Walston the contract was awarded to the Nashville Bridge company for $2,300. It was decided to use steel for the floor beams and joists in the bridges, while all of the old material possible will be used. The old towers will be used for floor material. The bond of the company was fixed at $4,000. The contract was awarded on the following vote: Magistrates Bennett, Emery, Householder, Kuykendall, and Walston.

After the disposal of the bridge proposition, Magistrate Kuykendall made the motion that the old telephones be removed from the county sanitarium and the road and bridge supervisor's office. There was considerable discussion about the necessity of the telephones but they were ordered out by the following vote: Yeas—Magistrates: Bleich, Emery, Kuykendall, Walston and County Judge Barkley. After other business had been transacted the matter of removing the telephone from the office of the road and bridge supervisor was reconsidered. It was decided to permit the telephone in the road and bridge supervisor's office to remain. The motion was made for the old telephone to remain in the county sanitarium provided the East Tennessee Telephone company would meet the same terms of the Paducah Home Telephone company, but the motion was lost.

Upon motion of Magistrate Kuykendall it was decided to purchase a horse, wagon and harness for the use of the keeper of the county sanitarium keeper. He needs the equipment for making trips to the city. The cost was limited to $200. Magistrate Walston offered to sell the county a horse, wagon and harness for $200.

It was voted to cut down the grades of several hills on the Love lacerille road. The cost was limited to that it will not exceed $50.

All the magistrates were present: Magistrates Bleich, Bennett, Emery, Ross, Spitzer, Walston, Kuykendall, and Householder. County Judge Barkley presided.

PHONOGRAPH MUSIC TEACHER

Novel Experiment with Pupils of Public School in Brooklyn.
A new method of teaching pupils to sing was used during the last year in public school 147 in Brooklyn. Miss Marie L. Brayer, the principal, hit on the idea of using a phonograph. A good phonograph with about a dozen standard records was bought with the income derived from the school paper and installed in the class that made the largest sale of papers.

Since the departmental system is used this does not deprive the rest of the school from the use of the phonograph. According to School is written on the blackboard, the music studied and then the record is played giving the proper tone and expression. It is then repeated, the pupils softly singing, after which the phonograph is stopped and the song sung from the music on the board. Among the records are "My Old Kentucky Home," "Dixie," "Softly Now the Light of Day," "The Glow Worm" and a few operatic overtures.

The wireless on the presidential yacht is strangely reticent.

Chattanooga comes forward with an increase of 27,000 in ten years.

The Chicago Tribune's alleged authentic tip that the Republican members of the Ballinger investigating committee exonerate him and the Democratic members find him lacking, will not be a shock to the nation.

A band of Moros have attacked the American secretary of the Philippines. It is time for the opposition press to criticize the administration for offending the savages. It is on a par with the injured sensibilities of Senor Madrid.

Mayor Gaynor, of New York, who,
like many before him, is now "spending his declining days" before being shunted into the oblivion of a vice-presidential nomination, may find consolation in the fact that Roosevelt "came back."

RIGHTS AND OBLIGATIONS.

The settlement of the threatened Pennsylvania railroad strike without the suffering entailed on the one side, the financial loss on the other and the inconvenience to the public between the millstones, is a subject for congratulation, and an indication of the latter day tendency of industrial leaders and officers of corporations to discuss their differences frankly and fairly, instead of, as formerly, devoting their attention exclusively to the strategy of the situation, and each by artifice trying to inveigle the other into a trap. Public sentiment has much to do with this.
Neither side can hope to win without it; both sides have learned that in order to win and hold it they must keep their hands as clean as if they were entering a court of equity.

The man, who manufactures articles has a right to say at what price
he will sell it, subject always to certain laws of value, and he may withhold his wares from the market, if he desires, until it rots and he starves; and men who work for the manufacturer may say at what price
they will sell their labor, subject always to the same law that governs
the value of the manufacturer's product; and the laborer may, if he desires, withhold his energy from the factory until his sinews wither away,
and he starves.

Once the capitalist thought there was no right he had to consider, but his own right; and once the labor unions thought they could meet might with might and consider no-body's right but their own. But we are all in this deal, and the rights and obligation of every man in a community are so interwoven with the rights and obligations of every other man, that he who would single out his own uninterrupted way to selfish ends, must first ravel out the threads of civilization itself and betake himself into the wilderness to dwell alone.

We lay too much emphasis these days on rights; for every right there

BUILDING IN CITIES.

Washington, July 19.—Building operations in 128 cities of the United States during the calendar year 1909, represented expenditures close to a billion dollars—or to be exact, according to statistics compiled by the United States geological survey, $930,520,713.

That result is taken to be one of the principal indications that during 1909 the country recovered from the financial panic of 1907 and 1908, for the building record for 1906 was beaten 10 per cent. A comparison of increases and decreases of the operations of 1909 with those of 1908 is held to be unreasonable, because, it is said, 1908 was not a normal year.
However, Chicago, which led the increases in 1908 with a little more than $8,000,000, led them again in 1909 with an increase of more than $28,000,000. New York, which was second in 1908 with an increase of a little more than $4,000,000, reported an increase for 1909 of $68,- 600,000. Brooklyn, which had reported a decrease of more than $25,- 000,000 in 1908, came third in the 1909 increases with a growth of $18,402,061.

Of the cities that showed decreases in 1909, San Francisco had the largest, $5,484,273, or 17.32 per cent.; Dayton was the largest proportional decrease; and Oakland was third with $1,002,051, or 15.85 per cent.—The decreases in these cities may be ascribed to local causes.

is a corresponding and unavoidable obligation imposed on the claimant.

WHAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN.

One of the aggravating features of the disastrous floods, which have swept Kentucky from end to end, causing wheat to rot in the shock, drowning out tobacco and corn and mildewing hay, is the fact that had July been an average month, Kentucky would have produced larger and better crops, in all probability, than she has been blessed with in years. The proof of this is found in the evidence, that where crops have not been disturbed by the rains, they look better than usual, both as to yield and quality.

An extraordinarily good start was secured with corn and tobacco and more of each was planted in southwestern Kentucky than usual. Until the first of July they were growing in size and form in a way to delight the eye. The harvest time appeared and then the rain fell upon field and meadow. In the lowlands many crops are abandoned, not only in the Purchase, but in the Blue Grass;
some hillside farms are washed, and the tobacco has "frenched." In other places in the same counties
the crops are in excellent condition.

It will be a hard year for many whose hopes rose high as the harvest time approached; but, as usual, the damage will be found not so extensive or severe as apprehended, and the farmer, unlike the city man who has had a bad year, still has the farm, and few of them do not extract, at least, a living off them from year to year, so that they can sow again for another yield.

THE HOPE OF DEMOCRACY.

The advent of Woodrow Wilson,
president of Princeton, into the race for governor of New Jersey, brings forth a new figure in the Democratic presidential situation; for, however much, the dignity which attaches to the person of the president of Princeton may prevent Professor Wilson declaring his hopes and aspirations, we may conclude that his consent to stand for the gubernatorial nomination, means a lively hope that his election may be a step toward the white house itself; and one must admit that if Professor Wilson is elected and succeeds in redeeming New Jersey from the disgrace into which she has fallen among states, he will be a commanding figure in the nation by 1912.

There are signs of regeneration in the Democratic party. Not in many years has she presented to the country so notable a galaxy of statesmen as Harmon, Wilson and Folk. During recent decades Democratic success has been limited chiefly to those districts, where an overwhelming majority has discouraged anything more than perfunctory opposition, and the consequence has been the same that has ever prevented Pennsylvania producing any remarkable statesmen among Republicans. The great majorities have encouraged the traffickers in the spoils of politics to compete for party control, and elevated to the honors of high office the pettifoggers, who can most scurrilously abuse the opposing side on the stump. Where elections are close, there men must think, offer a reason for the faith that is in them, respect the opinions of others, and present arguments that will win voters to them. There are just as able men in one-sided political districts, but they have not the necessities to develop their abilities;
there are just as honest men, but conditions tempt into the contest less honest men, capable of stooping to tactics the former could not abide.

We hope, that Woodrow Wilson will be nominated for governor, and unless the Republican produce an able man, certainly, we hope he will be elected. His influence will be exerted toward modernizing the Democratic party. Issues involved in the conservation of resources, the regulation of interstate commerce corporations, reformation of the monetary system, development of a system of waterway communication, reclamation of arid and swamp lands and protection of human rights, can not be met by allusions to debates on questions, which interested this nation in its infancy, nor even by concocting the efforts of the party in power to solve the complex problem of our internal well being. A better plan and some assurance of its adoption are necessary before Democracy can hope to gain a hearing.

"Dubley wants a comedy part,"

IS BALLINGER WHITEWASHED

REP. MADISON DENIES ANY CON-CLUSIONS REACHED.

Tribune Declares That Pinchot,
James R. Garfield and Louis R.
Glavis Are Condemned.

CHICAGO PAPER SAYS HE IS.

Chicago, July 19.—According to a special story in the Chicago Tribune
under a Washington date line, Secretary Richard A. Ballinger will be exonerated by a majority report of the joint congressional committee which for five months has been making an exhaustive investigation of the conduct of affairs of the department of the interior and of the bureau of forestry of the department of agriculture.

The investigators, who concur in the majority report, which carries a condemnation of the course of former Chief Forester Pinchot, J. R.
Garfield and Louis R. Glavis, according to the Tribune story, are Senators Nelson, Flint, Sutherland and Root, and Representatives McCall, Denby and Olmstead. It also is declared that a minority report will be filed declaring Secretary Ballinger guilty of the charges made against him, to which the signatures of Senators Purcell and Fletcher and Representatives Madison, James and Graham will be attached.

It is asserted that the majority report was drafted by Senator Nelson and that of the minority by Representative James, and that in addition Representative Madison has written his opinion of the affair, although he will sign the minority report.

The majority report is said to find Secretary Ballinger acted within the record and displayed proper judgment with respect to the Cunningham coal land claims, that he was wise, honest and conservative in his criticism of the reclamation service and in his abandonment of the policy of Secretary James R. Garfield.

The minority report, it is asserted,
will conflict almost in every particular with the finding of the majority of the commission.

Madison Denies It.

Kansas City, July 19.—Representative E. H. Madison, a member of the joint congressional committee, in a message from his home in Dodge City, Kan., declared that no conclusions had been reached in the investigation affecting Secretary Richard
A. Ballinger.

Mr. Madison's message follows:
"The committee meets at Minneapolis Sept. 5 to make its findings and conclusions. No conclusions can be reached or announced until after that meeting. All reports or rumors as to the findings of the members of the committee are unauthorized."

The message from Mr. Madison was made in response from one calling the representative's attention to a story printed in Chicago. The story stated that Secretary Ballinger would be exonerated by a majority report of the joint committee; that a minority report also would be returned; that in addition, Representative Madison had written his own opinion of the affair, but that he would also sign the minority report.

UNION STATION FIGHT WINDS
UP IN POLICE COURT.

Horse Cabs and Taxi-cabs Source of Ill-feeling Between the Parties.

W. H. Pool and Louis Pollock were fined $5 each in police court this morning for engaging in a fight at Union station yesterday shortly before noon. Pollock said he wanted to move the Palmer Transfer company's omnibus to get his automobile out of the "sup" and Pool interfered and struck at him.
Mr. Pool said Pollock had no right to move the horses. He acknowledged striking Pollock with a club and Pollock testified that he used curse words. Abe Barnett, brother-in-law of Pollock, was dismissed.
He said Pool chased him over the railroad tracks with the club and he retaliated by striking Pool between the eyes with a rock.

The case against Howard Bright, colored, charged with speeding on Broadway, was continued until tomorrow. Other cases were:

Breach of ordinance—Julia Biter
and Walter Jones, fined $5 each;
Ed Bondell and Susie Pippins, fined $5 each.

Breach of the peace—Luther Mc-Pherson, fined $5; Ella Gray, continued to July 20; Pete Duperrieu, fined $10.

WILL BE APPOINTED UNTIL NEXT JANUARY.

Chief Wood Will Attend to Duties
of Electrician.

No successor to W. J. McPherson, who resigned his position as city electrical inspector to accept a position on the state board, will be appointed until January 1. This announcement was made today by Fire Chief James Wood who has the authority of making the appointment, and will be sad news to the large number of applicants who were candidates for the position.
Instead of appointing an inspector to serve until next year, Chief

Wood will perform the duties of inspecting the wiring, and in this manner will save about $600 for the city as the salary of the office is $100 a month. Chief Wood is capable of performing the duties, as he is well experienced in safe wiring, and any work that is doubtful will be inspected by Mr. McPherson or Mr. Gladorf, of the state board, who have informed him that they will be glad to give him any assistance. All of the work is in good shape now, and the city can get along the remainder of the year without a regular electrical inspector.

Not for a Gentleman's Ears.

"Repeat the words the defendant used," commanded counsel for the woman plaintiff in a case of slander being tried in the First criminal court of Newark recently.

"Whisper them to the judge, then," magnanimously suggested counsel—and the court was obliged to rap for order.—Lippincott's Magazine.

Contests in Assembly Districts and Dissatisfaction With McCooey.

New York, July 18.—The general harmony which prevailed in the Democratic organization in Brooklyn following the death of Senator McCooey and the choice of John H. McCooey as his successor has not been maintained all along the line, and it is expected that there will be hot primaries in the fall in several assembly districts.

Already the Second district is in political turmoil between J. J. Bridges, the present leader, and former Alderman George A. Colgan, and considerable interest hinges on the fight by the announcement that James Shevlin, the representative of the old Willoughby street element in the party, favors Colgan.

A fight is also already on in the Eleventh district to depose Thomas F. Byrnes from the leadership and put Charles J. Hackett in his place.

It has been intimated by some veteran Brooklyn Democrats that a movement may be started to oust McCooey from the county leadership and put former Police Commissioner Bernard J. York, a close personal friend of Mr. Shevlin, in the saddle. McCooey, according to some of the old McCooey guard, is too friendly disposed toward Tammany and has been a failure in securing its fair share of the municipal patronage for the Brooklyn organization.

KEEP THE BOWELS ACTIVE.

No one can keep well with a lot of impurities blocked up in the system. The blood must have fresh material from which to draw its food—not a poisonous mass of waste matter.

See that the bowels are kept active and you need never feel ill or be liable to disease. The pleasant way—the gentle yet firm way—to keep sluggish bowels in good order is to take Dr. Edwards' Little sugar coated Olive Tablets. Dr. Edwards put fifteen years of experience into these tablets. They cure torpid liver, bad breath, pimples and purge the blood of all impurities. The Olive Oil in them soothes and heals wonderfully. All druggists sell them in 10 and 25 cent packages—to fit the vest pocket.

Chicago, July 19.—Wheat prices took a fresh start upward last week, and at the close of the seven days' business July had scored a net advance of 5 1/2 cents, September was 5 1/2 cents higher and December gained 5 1/2 cents as compared with the closing prices of the previous week. That the wheat trade is becoming uneasy over the world's wheat crop situation is no longer a matter of doubt. Whether or not there is full justification for this uneasiness is a question not easily answered at present, for all depends on future events. One thing is clear, however, and that is the world's total yield of wheat will not nearly reach earlier contemplations and promises, owing to the unfavorable climatic conditions which have existed for some time. The main factor is the deteriorated spring wheat crop in our own northwest and a similar condition in Canada. On top of this come reports from Russia claiming a growing calamity due to scorching temperatures to her wheat crop. This makes the prospects for a crop in that country considerably less than formerly.

The markets of the world also have shown nervousness and excitement, and prices there advanced rapidly last week. Unless new elements enter into the situation there is no danger of a famine yield, but there is no telling how many more wheat-growing countries may be hit before harvest time draws near. Were this a local condition entirely it would not be so especially important, but being an almost world-wide one, the subject becomes of universal importance.

Little for Export.

It is now the opinion of conservative men in the wheat trade that at best America will have only enough wheat for domestic use. The crop year, beginning July 1, starts just 70,000,000 bushels smaller than last year, and there were exports last year of about 80,000,000 bushels. It will be seen that the total necessary to export to leave reserves as large at the end of the present as at the end of the last crop year is but 10,000,000 bushels. This is practically a domestic basis, as it is figured that there is but 24,000,000 bushels available for export from the states of the Pacific northwest.

Never before have supplies in all positions been drawn so low, thus necessitating heavy drawings upon the last crop to bring trade supplies in all positions back to normal proportions—in itself a vast proposition and calling for immense quantities of wheat and flour. The deficit from normal at the beginning of the last crop year was replaced by a very comfortable but not large surplus at the year's end. The situation from a trade standpoint, therefore, is far different from that of a year ago.

Rain Weakens Values.

Unless there is a revision of official figures later or the spring wheat crop shows something of the powers of revival, as was shown recently in Kansas, it would appear as though this country, with the aid of the producer, could fight along comfortably through the year with the export factor eliminated.

Rains in the northwest over Sunday and cooler weather in the spring wheat belt and heavy marketings of winter wheat combined to weaken values on Monday. The heavy marketings of winter wheat probably had more influence on the trade than any other one factor, Kansas City alone received more than 50 per cent more wheat than all of the primary centers together had received a year ago. Keen disappointment was felt by owners of wheat at the manifest lack of response on the part of the public at large to the sensational showing of crop conditions announced by the government. Non professional speculators were apparently less sanguine of higher prices than were the professionals. The latter, seeing no prospect of support to offset the effect of the increased offerings of winter wheat, proceeded to dump their wheat on the market. One important feature of the situation this year is the independent position taken by buyers. A year ago there was frantic competition between buyers for all the cash wheat available. This year the buyer lacks interest, and the competition seems to be between the sellers.

Fresh Start Upward.

On Tuesday wheat took a fresh start upward, influenced mainly by the strength in the northwest. There was a little dip in prices at the outset due to local selling, but the property was well absorbed. The best buying was by the houses that led the selling on the previous day. The early sellers ran to cover late in the session. The new demand for wheat was stimulated largely by news from the

RASH APPEARS AGAIN.

Summer Eczema and Hot Weather
Skin Troubles Demand Prompt Treatment with Poslam.

All skin troubles which are prevalent in hot weather—rashes, inflammations, so-called summer eczema, itching spots, hives, pimples, etc., demand the use of poslam for their prompt eradication. Their causes are found in overheated blood, skin irritation, digestive disorders, etc. In some persons the eating of fish or berries in certain months always brings them on. For clearing the complexion, red or inflamed noses, sunburn, mosquito bites, burns, etc., poslam should be used in preference to aught else, surprising results being noted after a single application.

The readiness with which poslam heals small surfaces and minor troubles is but an indication of its rapid action in curing eczema, tetter, scabies, itch, etc., on hands, limbs, scalp or any part of the body. A special 50 cent package of poslam is prepared for minor uses, and this, as well as the regular $2 jar, is on sale by all druggists, particularly Gilbert's Drug Store and R. W. Walker & Co.

But a free sample, which will afford a convincing test, may be obtained by mail, by writing to the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York City.

Northwest that the crop was not responding to recent rains, crop experts meantime reducing their figures on the probable yields both in North Dakota and the Canadian northwest.

On Wednesday sentiment in the wheat pit was very bullish during the first hour or so, but it entirely reversed itself later. It developed that the northwestern markets were lagging and that section sold wheat very heavily here. Rains were later reported general over North Dakota and in parts of South Dakota and Minnesota. Crop advices from the spring wheat states were by no means as radical in tone as heretofore. The trade began to think that there might be a recurrence northwest of the crop improvement such as had followed the earlier damage reports in Kansas. It was also the popular impression that C. E. Lewis, of Minneapolis, had unloaded his big holdings here and here. The impression, however, was hardly in keeping with the continued bombardment of this market with bullish news by the Lewis followers. Other northwestern interests sold wheat persistently.

Trade Becomes Excited.

Toward the end of the week the trade became excited over the increasing seriousness in the crop damage claims from the Canadian northwest, followed by very marked advances at Winnipeg and in the American northwest. Along with fears that the Canadian spring wheat country was going the way of the North Dakota crop came disturbing reports regarding the outlook in Russia. A able report said that tropical heat continued and was shriveling the plant in the south. In view of the much lower basis of values in Europe than in America, however, the news from abroad was far less potent than that from the domestic field.

Gains in values in all of the northwestern markets were so large and well sustained that they gave much color to the serious crop damage reports that were pouring in from that section. It was the view of some of the conservative cash grain men here who have excellent opportunities of getting information that the Canadian wheat crop is going very much in the same way as the crop of North Dakota has been going in the last few weeks. If it should develop that the damage claims are substantiated it may result in stirring the European markets. The possibility of this gave local speculators much courage on the buying side.

Corn Opens Weak.

Corn was weak early in the week on excellent crop prospects. Later the market strengthened a little when the wheat market began to advance. A fair demand for cash corn also developed. The excellent growing weather and timely rains through out the corn belt, however, has caused some important deflections from the bull side and the wonder is that any advance at all was established. There has been very little actual change in views on the part of the local bulls, however, many successful traders going on the theory that corn in the first place is at too low a level as compared with other grains. The hay crop is also short and the prospect of profit on the bear side is not alluring enough to make it worth while.

Oats were helped moderately by the unfavorable crop reports from the northwest as reflected in the advance in wheat prices. Continued strength in the hay market and talk of a shortage in feed more than offset the effect of increased sales to arrive from the country.

Cook in Comfort

You no longer need wear yourself out with the weakening heat of an intensely hot kitchen. You can cook in comfort.

Here is a stove that gives no outside heat. All its heat is concentrated at the burners. An intense blue flame (hotter than either white or red) is thrown upwards but not around. All the heat is utilized in cooking—none in outside heating.

entirely removes the discomfort of cooking. Apply a match and immediately the stove is ready. Instantly an intense heat is projected upwards against the pot, pan, kettle or boiler, and yet there is no surrounding heat—no smell—no smoke.

Why? Because The New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove is scientifically and practically perfect. You cannot use too much wick—it is automatically controlled. You get the maximum heat—no smoke. The burner is simple. One wipe with a cloth cleans it—consequently there is no smell.

The New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove is wonderful for year-round use, but especially in summer. Its heat operates upward to pan, pot, or kettle, but not beyond or around. It is useless for heating a room.

It has a Cabinet Top with shelf for keeping plates and food hot. It has long turquoise-blue enamel chimneys. The nickel finish, with the bright blue of the chimneys, makes the stove ornamental and attractive. Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners; the 2 and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without Cabinet.

CHAPTER VII.

THE General looked up gravely. "Dele, I wish you would read some more to me, for there are words here that are too long. Both the prince and the other a good price and the other a bad price. Which would you rather be, Anatole?"

"Oh, but the good prince, of course," replied M. Veaudry, good humoredly concealing his vexation at being constantly interrupted in his snatched tete-a-tete with the child's sister. "Both of 'em have so many hairbreadth escapes I just can't tell whether I'd rather be the good one or the bad one," sighed the General. "Think of this: The good prince is in a secret passage, and the bad prince gets it walled up at both ends, but the good prince has got a slow fuse leading through a crack to a barrel of gunpowder under the bad prince's throne where he's sitting, but he doesn't know about it. What kind of time was that to tell anybody he wouldn't hear the rest till after breakfast?"

"Drink your milk or you shall never hear any more," threatened Mme. Davezac. And the child obediently but unwillingly seized the huge glass and attempted to drain it at a draft.

"You are pale like the camellia," murmured M. Veaudry, resuming his tete-a-tete with Miss Randall. "It is only the air of the plantation you need to make you the rose, and we are going to make you renounce these black; we go to persuade you to wear both the rose and the camellia in your dress once more."

"Not yet," said the girl sternly, frowning her black dress. "I know what you mean," returned, with deep significance. "Yet I tell you I think you are going to take off your mourning at the plantation. When you do then you will listen to what I have kept in my heart so long."

"I will not listen to any other man before then," she interrupted listlessly. "Why is Colonel Moreau not to come with us?" she asked abruptly, turning to her aunt. "I have such impatience to meet him. Are we not to see him?"

"Oh, yes. Possibly he may come in time to start with us," returned Mme. Davezac, rescuing the General from stragulation as he again attempted to drain his milk at a draft in order to the sooner return to "The Two Princes—A Romance."

"If Colonel Moreau doesn't come," said Ann Pleydell, "that leaves an empty seat in the carriage. Adele, won't you ask Anatole to take it instead of riding on horseback?"

"Certainly, I do," replied Miss Randall in the same pleasant, lifeless voice. And, although the young creole impulsively kissed her hand, she remained as strangely emotionless and expressionless.

"Come," she added colorfully; "you and I, Ann, have our packing to finish."

"And there is a packing case in the courtyard," sighed Mme. Davezac. "Will you see for me if it is secure, dear Anatole?" Then as the two girls left the room she added gravely: "Adele has always been fonder of you, Anatole, than of any other man. You must help to rouse her from this gloom. She wears that mourning now more than a year. Ugh! She broods; she is so bitter, so strange, so impulsive, so full of morbid impulse. Because her father had no one to protect him the poor child thinks she should befriend all the world which is in trouble. Last week one day coming home from the cathedral she has given her warm cloak to a ragged woman in the street. That was in the rain. You must help to rouse her, dear Anatole, from this gloom."

"It is no secret from all what I would give to make her happy once more," he replied, with gloomy sincerity.

When the young creole and his hostess joined the others at their packing the General, unnoticed and temporarily forgotten, had taken his book and secreted himself under the table, in which city of refuge he hoped to follow without interruption the further adventures of his two heroes. With all a child's adaptation to environment it was not long before he became completely absorbed in the romance. Presently vague and disturbing cries came stealing in through the open window, and these he impatiently shook off, for natural inquisitiveness as to their origin was trivial compared to the fate of the two princes. But the voices refused to be thus lightly dismissed. Excited cries of: "He went this way! Look in that courtyard! He turned this corner!" certainly merited the earnest attention and searching inquiry of every healthy eight-year-old whose native inquisitiveness cannot be dampened by being dragged from bed before dawn or discouraged by the prospect of an all day journey. After all, exciting fact is superior to exciting fiction, for the former is but temporary, while the latter is comparatively permanent—to be used as a stimulant or sedative when real life is lacking in appeal.

Turning around and looking up from under the table, the General's inquiring eyes met those of Cameo Kirby, who, standing motionless by the curtains, was warily scanning the room. For a long moment man and boy mutually estimated each other, too surprised to speak. "Come; cheer up," said Kirby at length, unconsciously employing his characteristic phrase. "Don't be afraid."

"I'm not afraid," breathed the General, creeping cautiously from under the table.

"Does the roof of this house touch the roof of the house next door?" pursued the gambler, with a reassuring smile.

"No," said the child, round eyed. "Are there people upstairs?"

"Yes, there are."

Kirby considered, no hint of his dilemma in voice or bearing. He felt that he could rely upon this child, who, with all the composure of a self-possessed adult, evinced no alarm or amazement at the sight of an overbearded and disarranged young man entering a strange house via the window.

"Does that lead to the street?" he asked, pointing to a door on his right.

The General nodded. He was breathless and terrified with joy. "Are you somebody making a hairbreadth escape?" he stated rather than asked.

"I hope so," admitted Kirby, with a smile. "Do you want to be somebody helping me to do it?"

"Yes, of course. What do I do?"

"Go out on the balcony," Kirby gravely explained, "and look as if nothing was the matter. Lean your elbow on the railing and tell me what you see." He drew aside the curtain as the child, with flushed cheeks and shining eyes, obeyed.

"There are men up at that corner," announced the General at length.

"Don't point," warned the man in the room. "How many men?"

"Five. Two of them all got guns."

"All right. Don't turn your head when you speak to me."

"There's more men hunting through the garden across the street," piped up the boy, wallowing in the satisfying knowledge that at last, by some miraculous intervention of a beneficent providence, he had become an indispensable character in a very real adventure which promised to eclipse the most thrilling hairbreadth escape he had ever read.

"Are any of the men looking up here?" whispered Kirby. "No? Come in, then—quick!" The boy obeying, he cautiously closed one part of the window, but refrained from drawing the curtain.

"I think," impressively announced the General, approving of these preliminary maneuvers, "that this is better than where the good prince's trusty friend cuts his bonds. Which one are you?"

"Which what am I?" asked Kirby, with a perplexed smile.

"I mean are you the good prince or the bad prince?"

"Oh, I see. Well, I'll try to be the good prince for a few minutes if you'll help me to get away. Suppose you find me a hat, eh?"

The General, with that lively disregard for another's property which every loyal servant of unfortunate princes must possess, instantly seized M. Veaudry's hat, which was resting on an adjacent chair.

"Thank you," said Kirby gravely, covertly examining the pistol in his breast pocket. "This door leads to the street, you say? And there are five men on the corner, two with guns?"

"Yes. What do we do now?" briskly asked the boy.

The other gravely offered his hand. "Why, now," he said gently, "we shake hands, and I say thank you. And next we say goodbye."

"All right. Wait till I get my hat."

"But we just said goodbye," remonstrated Kirby.

"Yes, but I'm going with you. You don't know what minute you may need a trusty friend. Besides, I've got to see what happens next."

"That's just what you mustn't," replied Kirby, shaking his head. "Don't you look out of that window when I've gone, and don't you come near the door. What do they call you?"

"General."

"Well, General, I've only known you about two minutes, but I'd hate to get you into any trouble. Now, we both would be in trouble if anybody came in here, so I've got to get out pretty quick, and we'll be in worse trouble if you try to follow me into the street. So I put it to you this way: If you really want to be my trusty friend, just shake hands with me again and say goodbye."

"Will you promise I can be your trusty friend?" said the boy earnestly. "No matter whether you turn out to be the good prince or the bad prince, I'll always be your trusty friend—always."

"Always," pledged Kirby, with the utmost sincerity.

"Then shake hands," said the General.

They did so gravely. "Thank you, General," said Kirby. "I—"

He turned sharply at the sound of a softly closing door. A girl had entered the room, a girl whose clear pallor was accentuated by the deep black dress and hair. She had overheard the boy's last words, had estimated the tableau, and now as Kirby's eyes met her own the warm blood crept into throat and cheeks, and she said impulsively, a little catch in her voice:

"So it is the General who has had the honor of receiving you, after all. I am so glad you have again changed your plans. Now you can go in the carriage with us."

"But you don't understand, Adele," cried her brother, while Kirby looked his astonishment. "His enemies are after him, and he had to make a hairbreadth escape through our window. He lost his hat in his flight from somewhere."

"Wait, General. We'll finish the story after 'awhile," she interrupted, smiling understandingly at Kirby.

"But I tell you he climbed in the window," persisted the excited boy. "I gave him Anatole's hat."

Kirby, his eyes still on the girl, bowed with courteous formality.

"It is entirely true, madam," he said lightly. Unhappily it isn't a story at all. I have not the honor to be here by appointment, as you evidently infer, but simply by accident—by virtue of the only open window in the street."

"And he doesn't know yet whether he's going to be the good prince or the bad prince," triumphantly added the General, proudly eyeing his hero.

Adele drew back, frightened, un-nerved, her hand creeping to the door knob. "It is a mistake," she breathed, wide eyed with sudden fear. "You are a stranger!"

"Please don't be afraid of my being the bad prince," smiled Kirby in his most reassuring and light-hearted manner. "If you will permit me, madam, to take this hat, I will vanish as I intended."

"There are men watching the streets," she said steadily, holding him with her eyes. "I saw them from my window. Is it that?"

All fear had vanished, and in her voice there was but apparent a concern for him, the stranger and interloper.

He nodded and turned to the listening child. "General, do you want to be my trusty friend once more? Good! Then do just what you did before—out there on the balcony."

When the child, with eager sincerity, had obeyed, Kirby added in an earnest and steady voice: "I don't know whether or not you can believe a stranger on his bare word, but I'll try. Last night I heard that the worst scoundrel I know was in New Orleans. I met him at sunrise this morning at the oaks. I went alone, and he came alone. It was a fair meeting. We fired together; he missed, but I didn't, so I had the good luck to come away. Ten minutes later they tried to arrest me for murder. I got away, but I didn't have a long start. When I turned into this street I heard them coming from both directions. There was only one chance to get out of sight—the open window of a strange house. I took it, and," he finished with a faint smile, "that's where I am."

She was silent. Then, "But you say it was a fair meeting. Why, then, should they—"

"I can't prove it was fair," he interrupted grimly. "I left him lying with his pistol in his hand, but it wasn't there when they found him. They thought I shot down an unarmed man because they found no weapon upon him."

"You mean it was stolen?" she asked wonderingly.

He smiled, shaking his head. "No common thief would have dared to. Whoever did it must have me worse than did the dead man. Stealing that pistol finishes me if I don't get away. That's all, and all I can say. If you can't believe me," he added quietly, "there's only one thing for you to do—go to that window and call those men in here for me. But if you can believe me—well, permit me to take this hat."

There was a pause, during which they looked each other in the eye, he calmly estimating him. Then she quietly left the room, quickly returning with a black felt planter's hat.

"Take this instead," she said evenly, tendering it. "It is my brother's."

Thanking her, he turned to go. But now she was at the window, and after one hurried glance she confronted him with white, drawn face and eager, restraining hand.

"Do you know they are still there, watching?" she cried. "How cruel to hunt a man down like that! You will never be able to get by them. They will kill you."

"If I start they'll know somebody tried to get by," he returned lightly, "and they'll probably finish me one way or the other. This way doesn't involve any legal procrastinations. That's why I prefer it."

"Don't try it, please don't," she whispered, pushing back her heavy hair. "I cannot let you make the attempt. It is suicide!"

"Why, that's about all that's left to me—to make a good try," he smiled. Then, suddenly serious and diffident, he added: "May I tell you something? Perhaps the circumstances might excuse it if it sounds overbold for a stranger to say. But it is something mighty precious that the last thing I heard before going out to make my try was the voice of a merciful lady speaking kindly to me and, more precious still, somehow, that it was you. I only wish I was going to have a chance to remember it longer."

"It isn't kindness," she returned simply. "I know that you told me the truth. I believe you are an honorable gentleman wrongly in great danger. I—I have suffered so much myself that it is enough for me to know about you. Listen! Would it be safe for you to cross from our front door to a carriage?"

"Don't try to do anything for me that!"

"If it were a closed traveling carriage—just by the door?" she persisted steadily.

"My story is true, and you have believed it—somehow. But nobody else would," he said grimly. "Please do not try to do anything for me. I don't know your family, but I'm mighty certain that they'd turn me over to—"

As if he thought he must permit me to do as I think best," she interrupted, with an imperious little gesture softened by her eyes. "We must make the best plan possible under the circumstances. It is out of the question for you to boldly leave the house, and that settles it. I couldn't let you make the attempt if you were my worst enemy. Now, I will see that the General promises to keep entirely secret the method of your entrance and on no account to mention the word 'escape.' I know he will promise faithfully, and we can rely upon it. Meanwhile we must think of some plan. There must surely be some way."

She stopped and assumed an unconcerned expression as Poulette, one of the servants, entered.

The French mulatto hesitated and then, pointing straight at Kirby, inquired: "Shall I take the colonel gentleman's portmanteau to the carriage?"

Adele turned, sudden inspiration in her eyes. "Yes, yes!" she cried, breathless with excitement. "And, Poulette, tell them to lift the top and let the carriage be closed."

The servant obeyed, picking up the late Colonel Moreau's green portmanteau, and when she had gone Miss Randall cried:

"Now I know! Now I have found the way!"

"But I don't understand," stammered Kirby. "I cannot permit you to make any effort on my behalf. And, then, there is your family!"

"Hush!" she whispered. "Here comes the family now."

Kirby unconsciously started, then drew himself up as the door opened, disclosing Mme. Davezac, Ann Pleydell and Anatole Veaudry.

"Anatole," cried Adele as they paused, astonished, "we must ask you to give up your seat in the carriage. You see, our friend has come, after all."

"Our friend?" echoed Mme. Davezac, coming eagerly forward. "What—is it possible? You mean, Adele, that this gentleman—"

"Yes," cried Adele, her eyes smoldering with excitement. "Quite possible, as you see. Aunt Davezac, Miss Pleydell, M. Anatole Veaudry, I wish to present—Colonel Moreau. The colonel's plans have changed. He rides with us to the plantation."

"Eh bien! Delightful," exclaimed Mme. Davezac, while the others expressed their astonishment and pleasure—"that is," she added playfully, with an arch glance at the pseudo Moreau, "if Colonel Moreau will not change his plans again."

Accustomed to such astounding turns of fortune, Kirby quickly recovered the composure shattered by the totally unexpected and amazing introduction of Adele. "No, madam," he replied gravely, bowing to the still archly smiling Mme. Davezac. "Colonel Moreau won't change his plans again."

And in this unheralded manner, under false colors which had been hoisted by the protecting, merciful and ignorant hand of one who had been the last to act as his savior, came Cameo Kirby to the house of his enemies.

LIVESTOCK.

Louisville, July 19.—The receipts of cattle today 2,113 head, as against 2,113 a year ago and 1,862 two years ago. There was a pretty good representation of the local traders and butchers on the market, as well as a few foreign buyers, but owing to liberal receipts and lower markets elsewhere, together with the liberal supply on sale here, the trade was dull and draggy from the start, and in almost every instance prices were lower. Prime light butcher cattle were the best sellers, and changed hands around barely steady to 10¢ to 15¢ lower prices. Medium and inferior butcher stock, especially the grassy, half-fat kinds, were exceedingly hard to sell and as much as 15¢ to 25¢ lower. Steers ranging from 900 to 1,100 pounds of the "between kind," not fat enough for the butchers and lacking sufficient quality and grade to attract feeder buyers, were the poorest sellers of any class. Some salesmen held that such cattle were easily 25¢ to 40¢ lower than a week ago and hard to find places for even at the greatest decline. There was a pretty good demand for good-grade feeders and high-class stock cattle at just about steady figures, but the medium, plain and common grades were more or less neglected and unevenly lower. Good to choice bulls and canners were lower. Milch cow trade slow. Not many good, heavy cattle here, and the feeling in that class was easy and lower. The pens were not entirely cleared this evening, and the market made a dull finish.

Calves.

Receipts 154, the market ruled lower, the bulk of the best 7½¢, 8¢; medium 6¢ to 7½¢, common 3¢ to 6¢.

Hogs.

Receipts 842, the market opened steady on account of the light supply the best heavy hogs 20¢ lbs. and up 88¢, 10¢ lbs. to 200 lbs. 89¢, 200 lbs. and heavy pigs, 90¢ lbs.

to 165 lbs. $9.25, light pigs $8.25 down, roughs $8 down. The pens were fairly well cleared, but the market closed weak and looks lower.

Sheep and Lambs.
 The receipts of sheep and lambs were 7,246 head. The quality of the lambs today was not good, all other markets were demoralized and much lower, and there was nothing doing up to the time of going to press. Indications were, however, that prices would be lower, and that the best lambs would probably sell around 6½¢, seconds 5¢, culls 3¢ to 3½¢, fat sheep about 3½¢ down, common sheep and trashy cull lambs almost unsalable. Some demand for fancy stock ewes, plain and common ewes slow sale.

TOBACCO REVIEW.

Louisville, July 19.—The continued heavy rains are doing considerable damage to the growing tobacco crop as well as to other crops. Tobacco on hillsides and lowlands is suffering the most. The rains have been general over the state. Very little business was done on the local breaks last week. Auction sales amounted to only 527 hogsheads, and of the reported sales of 409 hogsheads, 300 belonged to the Italian Regie and were only sampled. The market as a whole showed no material change.

Auction sales of burley brought out only 213 hogsheads. There was scarcely any color tobacco in the offerings, but the quality and condition of the tobacco was fairly good. Irregularity was noticeable for red smokers, while an improved demand was in evidence for common and medium red leaf. Active competition was the rule for good and fine red leaf, on which former prices were well maintained. There was a strong demand for color smokers and stripers and going prices were ½¢ higher as compared with last week. Active competition marked all offerings of bright grades, with the result that prices were steady to firm.

Dark tobacco was offered to the extent of 314 hogsheads, nearly all of which was air-cured, as a rule in bad condition and of poor quality. There was a good demand for lugs, with prices ruling a few bids higher and active competition for common and medium leaf at an advance of ½¢. No change was noted for manufacturing and rehandling leaf, they being in fairly good demand. The limited offerings of red leaf and lugs

KEEP WATER COOL IN ALL FOUNTAINS

CITY SOLICITOR MAY EVOLVE SUCCESSFUL SCHEME.

Wherefore Bornemann Request Is Held In Abeyance For a Time.

GENERAL COUNCIL MEETING

City Solicitor James Campbell, Jr., has something under his bonnet. The bee has been buzzing for some time and last night the legal advisor of the city told the board of councilmen he had an inspiration but he refused to discuss it.

The "new idea" is a result of a bequest of $3,000 made to the city by William Bornemann, deceased, for the purpose of establishing public drinking fountains. But there is one clause in the bequest that sends a chill down the backs of the city legislators. That is that the fountains must be supplied with cold water.

How to keep running water cold without ice is a problem for the scientists to ponder upon and if the city has to place ice in the fountains it may turn down the offer. That was the purpose of a bill introduced before the general council last night, to refuse the bequest. Some members were opposed to it and one idea was put forward. It was suggested that the city dig wells at each fountain installed and keep the water cool by means of a coil at the bottom of the well. City Solicitor Campbell told the board he hadn't exactly defined the term "cool" and he was doing a little figuring. It is supposed that he will make an attempt to have the money used legally by the city for a similar purpose if not for the direct purpose specified in the bequest. He will make a report at the next meeting.

Recording Deeds.
 Another "problem" for the City Solicitor was let out of the bag last night in the council chamber by City Engineer L. A. Washington, who said there must be some steps taken against property owners who refuse to record their deeds of transfers of property. Mr. Washington, who has nearly completed the block map for the 1911 assessment, told the councilmen that many owners of real estate would plot off their ground to suit themselves and make subdivisions of it, selling lots and not recording the deeds. Therefore it is beyond the power of the city engineer and his force to make drawing of the property of which there is no description obtainable. He also suggested that some remedy be made for having owners to lay off streets in their property so as to conform with the city streets. Mr. Campbell will make an investigation and says there must be some way of handling the property owners as other growing cities have no doubt had the same questions confronting them.

The council passed several ordinances last night and killed the ordinance for the improvement of Elizabeth street from Third to Fifth streets. The city engineer said the work could not be possibly done this year even if the ordinance passed, owing to the large amount of other work before him at present.

The Council.

Property owners on the South side petitioned the council asking for the non-improvement of Elizabeth street from Third to Fifth and to Broad streets, as called for in a resolution passed by the general council. The communication was received and filed.

The following accounts for the first half of July were unanimously allowed.

Street department, $308.00.
 Sewer department, $108.00.
 Engineer department, $509.00.
 Fire department, $1,113.65.
 Police department, $1,152.42.
 Electric plant, $145.00.
 Oak Grove cemetery, $88.00.
 Riverside Hospital, $119.10.
 Sanitary officers, $60.00.
 License revenue, $70.00.
 General expense, city scales, $30.
 Interest coupons, $4,768.95.
 A. J. Miller & Sons, estimate, City Engineer, for intersections of Fountain avenue, $1,287.80.

The board ratified the action of the board of public works in accepting the concrete sidewalk work on Fountain avenue and Clay streets, which was constructed by Contractors A. J. Miller & Sons.

Thank Charity Club.
 A report from the Charity club was received and filed and a vote of thanks extended the ladies for their diligent work the past year. The report was prepared by Mrs. A. T. Sutherland.

George Goodman & Co., wholesale liquor dealers, were refunded $125, overpaid on their annual license. They had paid the full amount, $250, the first of the year.

Two city bonds that had been retired, for $1,000 each, were ordered burned before the board of aldermen by City Treasurer Walters.

Ex-County Jailor James W. Eaker presented a bill for $24 for ice water furnished at the city polls last November during the supplemental registration. The bill had been before the finance committee and endorsed, "not allowed." Attorney F. E. Graves, representing Mr. Eaker, appeared before the board and explained that the city was liable for the amount. City Solicitor Campbell refused to pass upon it, asking for time to investigate. A motion to refer it to him was lost and a vote to allow it passed. Councilman Duvall voted against it.

Ordinances.
 An ordinance providing for the grading and graveling of Brown street, from Broad street to the Illinois Central railroad right-of-way, was referred to the city solicitor to make a report at the next meeting as to whether all of the property necessary for the street has been dedicated.

The ordinance providing for the construction of Elizabeth street from Third street to Fifth street and to Broad street was lost by a vote of 6 to 5. Councilmen Duvall, Kreutzer, Lally, Mayer and McCarthy opposed it.

An ordinance providing for the grading and graveling of Fourteenth street from Twelfth street to Fourteenth street, was given first and second passages.

First and second passages were given an ordinance providing for the grading and graveling of Fourteenth street from Burnett street to the Rieke farm.

An ordinance, fixing the annual salary of the city engineer at $2,100, payable in monthly installments, and also defining his duties, was passed unanimously.

An ordinance, establishing the board of health, elected by the city, and specifying its work in sanitary matters, requiring a monthly report, to the city, and fixing its powers and duties, was given first and second passages.

The city engineer was instructed to furnish the city solicitor with figures on Bradshaw avenue and for him to bring condemnation proceedings.

The matter of putting in a new floor at No. 3 fire station, Tenth and Clay streets, was referred to the fire and police committee on motion of Councilman Mayer.

Miss Kate Nunemacher, city stenographer, was given an increase of salary from $50 to $60 per month. Members McCarthy and Barnett opposed it.

The board reconsidered its previous action in granting George Allen, colored, a saloon license. He was refunded $250 paid for the last half of this year.

A request of Thomas J. Stahl for the privilege of running a switch line from the Standard Oil company's tracks at Tenth and Monroe streets, through the Fooks-Acree Lumber company yards to his tobacco plant at Tenth and Madison streets, was referred to the street committee for investigation.

The board adjourned until Friday night at which time an ordinance will be passed assessing property owners on Fountain avenue between Monroe and Trimble streets their apportionment for the new sidewalk improvement.

Members present were: Councilmen Foreman, Barnett, Budde, Duvall, Hannin, Horton, Kreutzer, Lally, Mayer, McCarthy and Wilson. Mr. Leigh was absent.

Adjournment was taken at 10:08 o'clock.

The Aldermen.
 All of the business before the board of aldermen could not be disposed of last night and they adjourned until Friday evening when the business will be finished. At the same time the ordinance assessing the property owners on Fountain avenue between Monroe and Trimble streets their apportionment for the new sidewalks, curb and gutters will be passed. City Solicitor James Campbell, Jr., explained last night that he had been unable to complete the ordinance for the session last night.

A resolution for the city to refuse the $3,000 bequeathed in the will of the late William Bornemann for the establishment of public drinking fountains was referred to the finance committee and city solicitor. By the terms of the will the city in accepting the bequest is required to maintain the fountain all the year, and during the warm weather months to keep the water cooled with ice. The expense of maintaining the fountain would be considerable, and the resolution will be considered carefully before the adoption.

As many of the assistants to the city officers have been granted increases in salary, Miss Kate Nunemacher, the private secretary to the mayor, was granted an increase of $10 a month, making the salary $60 a month. Several months ago the increase was taken up, but voted down by a small majority. Last night Alderman Lackey brought up the question and it passed with only Alderman Potter casting a dissenting vote.

T. J. Stahl & Co. requested permission to extend a spur track across Monroe street at Tenth street and across the alley on Tenth street between Monroe and Madison streets. With this exception the spur track will be on private property. The request was referred to the street committee.

The allowance of a bill for $24 to J. W. Eaker, former county jailer, caused considerable discussion, but was finally made. The bill was presented for the rental of registration booths, and providing of the registration officers with heat, light and ice water on the supplemental registration days during the years 1907, 1908, 1909 and 1910. Some wanted to refer the bill to the city solicitor for an investigation, but Attorney F. E. Graves asked that it be allowed last night as it had been pending for some time. An amendment referring the bill to the city solicitor was voted down, and on another vote the bill was allowed. Aldermen Hannan, Lackey, Oehlschlager and Potter voting "aye" and Aldermen Hank and VanMeter against it.

Health Department.
 A voluminous ordinance, establishing the health department, was read. The ordinance covers completely the regulations for the health department, and also the care of persons afflicted with contagious diseases. First and second passages were given the ordinance.

The new ordinance establishing the office of city engineer was given first and second passage. The salary is fixed at $2,100 and includes most of the provisions in the old ordinance.

Two bonds have been redeemed by the city and were burned in the presence of the aldermen. One bond was No. 28 of the bonds issued for the Paducah, Tennessee & Alabama railroad for $1,000 due October 1, 1920. The second bond was No. 19, for $400, of the bonds for the purchase of the Mayfield gravel road.

The report of the finance committee was read and approved. City Clerk Maurice McIntyre presented a letter, stating the George Goodman company had paid twice for a quart liquor license for the second half of the year. The aldermen received and filed the letter, as they decided it would be proper for the company to request the refund of the money.

A statement of the financial condition of the Charity club was received and filed. The ladies of the club were extended a vote of thanks for their efficient work among the indigent.

The ordinance, providing for the improvement of Brown street between Broad street and the Illinois Central right-of-way, was referred to the city solicitor and city engineer.

The board of public works notified the aldermen that the public improvements of concrete sidewalks and gutters and granite curbing on Fountain avenue between Monroe and Trimble streets, had been approved. The action of the council in ratifying the acceptance of the work and the city paying its part was concurred in by the aldermen.

The granting of a saloon license to George Allen, colored, was reconsidered, and the license refused. Since the license has been granted, Allen has been convicted in the city police court of selling liquor to minors, and his bondsmen refused to sign the bond. City Treasurer Walters was directed to refund Allen the $250 he paid for the license.

The minutes of the last meeting were read, approved and accepted as corrected.

Those present were: Aldermen Hannan, Farley, Hank, Oehlschlager, Potter, Lackey and VanMeter.
